Employee Climate Survey

How do you improve employee satisfaction?

Ask them. The first step is knowing what improvements to make. Allowing employees to voice their experiences and perspectives gives you guidance on effective and necessary changes you can make, as well as providing staff members a venue to share their concerns.

Employee satisfaction is more than just another statistic in your annual report. Employees are the backbone of your organization: the people who plan, develop, and provide services and put your mission and vision into practice. Employee satisfaction leads to improved customer satisfaction, which leads to better performance for your organization.

What's the most effective way to assess employee satisfaction?

uSPEQ[®]. You know what you want to find out from your employees, but may not know the best way to ask them. We do. Developed by highly qualified and experienced researchers, uSPEQ takes employee satisfaction surveys to a higher level with a psychometrically sound, field-tested questionnaire that provides comprehensive reports to management for performance improvement.

uSPEQ is a powerful, flexible tool customized to your organization's needs.

uSPEQ Employee Climate Survey consists of universal core questions for benchmark comparisons. In addition, you can choose from a set of optional standardized questions and include custom questions specific to your organization. The survey is a thorough assessment of employee satisfaction yet concise enough to be completed in less than 15 minutes.

What do organizations say about the questionnaire?

“This has been a very valuable process for our agency. There are things we couldn't have known about ourselves without having the opportunity to do this survey. I would highly recommend this process for any agency.”

*Lyn Martens, M.A., R.C.C.
Director of Operations
Family Services of Greater Vancouver
Vancouver BC*

“The report is easy to interpret and presented in a timely and professional manner. The report provided us with a good indicator regarding the areas and issues in which we need to work on to improve the employee climate satisfaction.”

*Sarah Price, Ph.D.
